

L&T bags Award for Excellence in Health & Wellness Practices

Larsen & Toubro won the first place in OSH India 2023 Awards in the 'Excellence in Health and Well-being' category. Out of the 21 shortlisted from a total of 553 entries, L&T emerged the topper in this category. Dr. Divyang Shah (Head - Medical Services & Community Health Centres - Mumbai) received the award along with the Medical & Welfare Team at a glittering ceremony on 24th November.

L&T won the OSH India 2023 Award in 'Excellence in Health and Well-being'

This event, focusing on occupational safety and health standards among organisations in South Asia, serves as a platform to bring together exhibitors, consultants, experts and company officials to share best practices and address workplace safety challenges. The forum also honours the guardians of safety and health by acknowledging stellar contributions by individuals and organisations and by highlighting initiatives dedicated towards creating a culture of safety and healthy work environment.

This award is yet another milestone for L&T and underscores its commitment and dedication towards prioritising health and wellness measures along with occupational safety within every aspect of its operations. The culture of well-being and excellence fostered by L&T is worthy of emulation by others in the industry.
